Like many cities in India, Hyderabad, especially the old city parts comes alive much later in the day. A visit to the markets during the day-time sometimes does not do justice to the 'bling' factor that multiplies under the bright evening lights. Here's a chance to discover the city in its sparkling brilliance, sometimes quite literally. And what better way to end the tour than at the Falaknuma Palace which is an oasis of peace set atop a hill. Literally meaning "A mirror to the Sky", the Falaknuma Palace is a perfect destination for dinner while you watch the city lights blinking below you. As the last call for prayers fade away in the numerous mosques, enjoy a sumptuous pre-plated dinner at the Indian restaurant which reflects the grandeur of the Nizams' lifestyle.
